

"The bark was flying from the trees...the Indians had the best powder and bullets as well as the bow and arrow...They fought on until the daylight came, and at the southern end of the battlefield the Indian took his last stand." (General William Henry Harrison)

The 200th Anniversary of the Battle of Tippecanoe Commemoration November 5-7th, 2011

The men, the history, and the cultures on both sides of the conflict will be remembered at the Battle of Tippecanoe 200th Anniversary Commemoration. In a historic collaboration of museums, historic sites, parks, and not-for-profit organizations, four different entities that operate two different sites will partner together to share resources and provide the best educational experience possible, to honor those who died at the battle so many years ago. Activities will take place at the Tippecanoe Battlefield Park, and Historic Prophetstown, located in Prophetstown State Park in Battle Ground, Indiana.

Admission- $5.00 adult, $3 child (4 to 16), under 4 free

Free shuttle bus service between both sites running continuously.

"Our lives are in the hands of the Great Spirit. We are determined to defend our lands, and if it is his will, we wish to leave our bones upon them." (Tecumseh)

November 30th, 1811

"Many Widows, & Orphans, are made so, by this dreadful fight, when will Brother cease to lift his hand against his Brother, and learn War no more?" (Quote from Lydia Bacon's journal, describing her feelings when her husband returned from the Battle of Tippecanoe)

For further information, please contact Leslie Martin Conwell, Battle Commemoration Coordinator, 200th@tippecanoehistory.org, 765.426.2128, www.tippecanoehistory.org